

GLOCAL UNIVERSE FUND

FACTSHEET

FEBRUARY 2025

Macroeconomic Update

February was another strong month for major components of the fund's portfolio. Almost 90% of bonds delivered positive returns with high-yield spreads tightening even more. Yields declined across the whole UST curve as inflation continued showing cooling signs.

While the broad USD equity market experienced turmoil, the fund's positioning in the sector allowed for major outperformance. Gold prices reached all-time highs, while risk-off sentiment caused sizeable crypto sell-offs, though we closed this position entirely in early March at a moment of a strong rebound.

11.9% TTM return 35.7% Annualized return since inception

Fund strategy

The fixed income component of the Fund focuses on instruments demonstrating attractive risk–yield combinations with issuers across developed and emerging markets. The equity portion of the fund, on the other hand, targets companies with strong growth potential. Overall, the fund's strategy is to combine the benefits of fixed income and equity securities to ensure long-term capital growth.

Disclaimer

The data, views and forecasts in this document is for information purposes only and shall not be regarded as an offer, solicitation or recommendation for an investment. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All investments involve risks including the risk of possible loss of principal. The market value of a Fund's portfolio may decline as a result of a number of factors, including adverse economic and market conditions, prospects of securities in the portfolio, changing interest rates, and real or perceived adverse competitive industry conditions. The Fund invests in securities and other investments that may be illiquid, which hold the risk that the securities will not be able to be sold at the time desired by the Fund. The Armenian securities markets have substantially less trading volume than the securities markets of OECD countries. Additionally, the capitalization of the Armenian securities markets is highly concentrated. This combination of lower volume and greater concentration in the Armenian securities markets may create a risk of greater price volatility than in the securities markets of developed economies. The views and forecasts contained herein are those of the GLOCAL team based on information that they believe to be reliable. These opinions may change over time.
