GLOCAL UNIVERSE FUND

FACTSHEET

MAY 2025

Macroeconomic Update

May was a strong rebound month for most risk-on assets on the market. A rebound in US trade policy helped stock indexes reclaim a large part of losses from previous months. Macroeconomic data, especially the hard part, continues to point towards a strong labor market, modest growth and cooling inflation. While IG credits were mostly in the red, HY securities experienced spread tightening and positive performance. Gold was largely flat, while UST yields rose significantly (especially on the longer end) on deficit expansion expectations. Bitcoin continued to soar above USD 100k. We still anticipate continued uncertainty on both the US macroeconomy and policy levels and geopolitical tensions as well.

Disclaimer

The data, views and forecasts in this document is for information purposes only and shall not be regarded as an offer, solicitation or recommendation for an investment. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All investments involve risks including the risk of possible loss of principal. The market value of a Fund's portfolio may decline as a result of a number of factors, including adverse economic and market conditions, prospects of securities in the portfolio, changing interest rates, and real or perceived adverse competitive industry conditions. The Fund invests in securities and other investments that may be illiquid, which hold the risk that the securities will not be able to be sold at the time desired by the Fund. The Armenian securities markets have substantially less trading volume than the securities markets of OECD countries. Additionally, the capitalization of the Armenian securities markets is highly concentrated. This combination of lower volume and greater concentration in the Armenian securities markets may create a risk of greater price volatility than in the securities markets of developed economies. The views and forecasts contained herein are those of the GLOCAL team based on information that they believe to be reliable. These opinions may change over time.
