GLOCAL UNIVERSE FUND

FACTSHEET

APRIL 2024

Macroeconomic Update

April brought pronounced risk-off sentiment to the market, which influenced the performance of the fund's portfolio constituents. The sentiment was influenced by strong economic data and indications of more persistent inflation. The UST market experienced 40-50 bp yield increases across the longer duration segments, while the more short duration fixed income part of the fund's portfolio mostly avoided major sell-offs. Nasdaq 100 lost more than 5% during the month regardless of the strong financial reports of Big Tech companies. Gold was predictably stronger, while BTC experienced major negative performance amidst the Bitcoin halving "sell the news" event and short term investor profit taking.

Disclaimer

The data, views and forecasts in this document is for information purposes only and shall not be regarded as an offer, solicitation or recommendation for an investment. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All investments involve risks including the risk of possible loss of principal. The market value of a Fund's portfolio may decline as a result of a number of factors, including adverse economic and market conditions, prospects of securities in the portfolio, changing interest rates, and real or perceived adverse competitive industry conditions. The Fund invests in securities and other investments that may be illiquid, which hold the risk that the securities will not be able to be sold at the time desired by the Fund. The Armenian securities markets have substantially less trading volume than the securities markets of OECD countries. Additionally, the capitalization of the Armenian securities markets is highly concentrated. This combination of lower volume and greater concentration in the Armenian securities markets may create a risk of greater price volatility than in the securities markets of developed economies.
