GLOCAL UNIVERSE FUND

FACTSHEET

JANUARY 2025

Macroeconomic Update

After a relatively weak ending of 2024 the first month of 2025 brought strong performance from all the fund's constituents. While UST yields somewhat rebounded after the initial reaction to the results of the US presidential elections corporate spreads squeezed significantly with real yields of HY instruments decreasing.

US equity showed strong positive results as well as signs of broadening of the gains. Gold and Bitcoin reached all-time-highs as central banks continued stacking the precious metal and more talks about the "strategic crypto reserve" resurfaced after Donald Trump's inauguration. We will be considering major portfolio changes as the outlines of the new US administration's policies become more apparent.

The data, views and forecasts in this document is for information purposes only and shall not be regarded as an offer, solicitation or recommendation for an investment. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All investments involve risks including the risk of possible loss of principal. The market value of a Fund's portfolio may decline as a result of a number of factors, including adverse economic and market conditions, prospects of securities in the portfolio, changing interest rates, and real or perceived adverse competitive industry conditions. The Fund invests in securities and other investments that may be illiquid, which hold the risk that the securities will not be able to be sold at the time desired by the Fund. The Armenian securities markets have substantially less trading volume than the securities markets of OECD countries. Additionally, the capitalization of the Armenian securities markets is highly concentrated. This combination of lower volume and greater concentration in the Armenian securities markets may create a risk of greater price volatility than in the securities markets of developed economies. The views and forecasts contained herein are those of the GLOCAL team based on information that they believe to be reliable. These opinions may change over time.
